SIGN MARTIAL LAW TODAY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—The strong right arm of the United States government is ready to descend upon the disorderly factions in the West Virginia mine war.

Unless the strife ends by noon tomorrow the federal government is prepared to throw two regiments of infantry into the fighting area and to assume control of five counties, where the state authorities are no longer able to handle the situation.

A proclamation of martial law has been drafted. It is ready to be signed and issued by the President tomorrow. It will establish federal martial law in Kanawha, Boone, Fayette, Logan, and Mingo counties. Charleston, the state capital, is located in Kanawha county, but federal authorities here state that there is no intention of interfering with the state government outside of the counties named in the proclamation.

Harding Watches State.

If the proclamation is issued it will be one of the very few instances in which the federal government has been called upon to declare martial law in any part of the nation since reconstruction days. President Harding and Secretary Weeks were watching developments closely in the hope that it would not be necessary to take such an extreme step but the reports they received were not encouraging.

HISTORY OF MINE WAR

Trouble in the Blair mountains of West Virginia, which is now reaching such proportions that the federal government must take a hand, began in 1901-1902 when the mine unions attempted to unionize the Kanawha fields. The Glen Jean strike was called at that time and warfare has broken out with more or less violence at ten year periods ever since. More recently, however, the unions have been driving very hard to capture this nonunion stronghold. The district has been a fruitful field for I. W. W.'s, bolsheviks, communists, and every other agent of violence and disorder.

Mingo, one of the most important of the unorganized fields in West Virginia, became the center of the controversy between the union officials and operators early last year. On May 17 last year the operators, in their attempt to keep the field unorganized, served eviction notices on a number of union miners who lived in the company houses at Matewan. The notices were served by Baldwin-Felts detectives employed by operators throughout the unorganized fields.

Battle Follows Evictions.

The eviction was followed by a street battle in Matewan, in which eleven men were killed. Sid Hatfield, supposed to be in the employ of the union, was charged with complicity in the shooting. On the heels of this street fight the union men decided a strike. The walkout was general throughout the border county and spread to a number of operations across the Tug river in Kentucky.

For almost a year there was intermittent warfare between guards and strikers, but the operators gradually filled the mines with nonunion men who apparently had no sympathy with the strikers.

Then came the outbreak in April and May last in which the fighting assumed the aspect of an insurrection. Federal troops were withdrawn during the winter and the state constabulary was unable to cope with the situation. On May 19, the anniversary of Matewan day, a demonstration was planned by the union officials. This included the dynamiting of several of the mine buildings throughout the adjacent fields. These plans were only partially fulfilled, and on the following day martial law was declared in the county and the presence of the federal troops again brought seeming peace.

OIL VERDICT IN MEXICO OPENS WAY TO AMITY

Confiscation Stopped; May Bring Recognition.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—The decision of the Mexican Supreme court enjoining the Mexican executive from confiscating American and other foreign oil properties acquired before May, 1917, is believed to remove one of the obstacles to the settlement of disputes between the United States and Mexico and to American recognition of the Obregon government.

Secretary Hughes was unwilling today to discuss the effect of the decision upon Mexican-American relations until he studied the opinion of the court. He did not conceal, however, his hope that the action of the court would prove instrumental in paving the way to a satisfactory understanding with Mexico.

Carranza Made It Retroactive.

The present Mexican constitution, effective May 1, 1917, provides for the nationalization of Mexican oil and other mineral lands. Carranza issued a decree providing for the retroactive application of the law, threatening the seizure and confiscation of American and other foreign oil lands acquired before that date. The decree was not annulled even under the Obregon administration.

The United States and other foreign governments protested against the retroactive application of the law, and as a condition precedent to American recognition of Obregon Secretary Hughes insisted that Mexico enter into a treaty guaranteeing that there would be no confiscation of the properties acquired before May 1, 1917.

President Obregon was unwilling to give such guarantees in the form of a treaty, and for the last three months he has been endeavoring to devise means of satisfying the United States and winning the coveted recognition of his government without entering into a treaty.

Hopes for Recognition.

Undoubtedly his hope now is that the United States will be satisfied with the decision of the Mexican Supreme court. The Mexican court enjoined the executive from carrying into effect a retroactive application of the nationalization law on the ground that article 14 of the same constitution provides that "no law shall be given retroactive effect to the prejudice of any person whatsoever."

Whether This Decision Will Satisfy the Harding Administration and Cause Mr. Hughes to Waive Further Insistence upon a Treaty Remains to Be Seen.

If the United States is to accept the court decision alone as a satisfactory settlement, there would still remain no assurance that the court at some future time would not reverse itself and authorize the resumption of a confiscatory policy.

HOPEFUL IN MEXICO CITY.

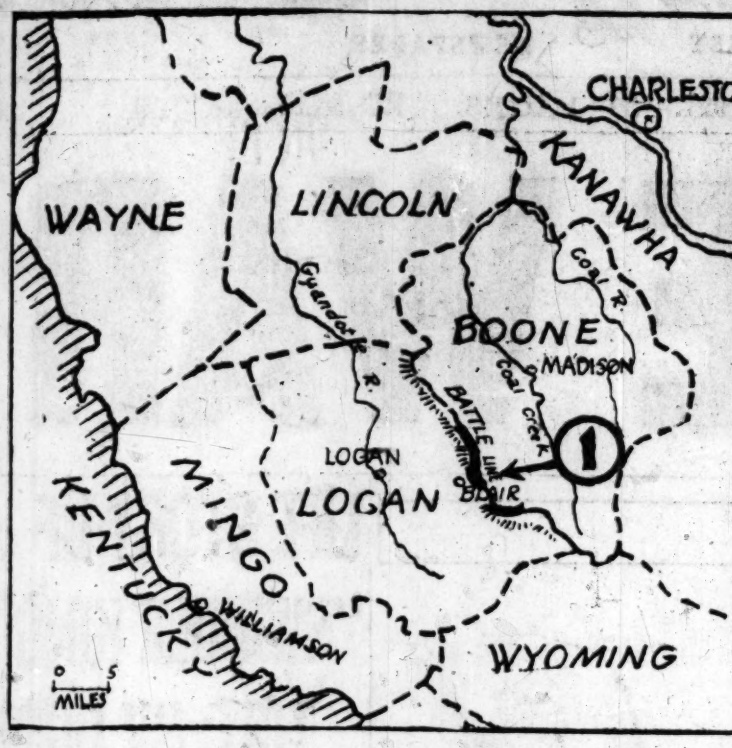

Mexico City, Aug. 31.—[By the Associated Press.]—Indications are that a compromise agreement on the export and production taxes on oil will be reached this week between the heads of the five American oil companies now in Mexico City and Secretary of the Treasury De La Huerta. It was hinted today that such an agreement probably would be reached on Friday, and that the American oil men would leave Mexico City satisfied with the results obtained.

JAPS EXPECT TO COME TO TERMS WITH U. S. ON YAP

Tokio to Rule Isle and Uncle Sam Cable.

TOKIO, Aug. 31.—[By the Associated Press.]—The Japanese foreign office has received advice, according to Tokyo newspapers today, indicating that the points at issue between Japan and the United States over control of the island of Yap would soon be settled upon the following basis:

First, the United States would recognize the Japanese mandate over the island.

Second, the United States would control the cable between the islands of Yap and Guam.

Third, the cable connecting Japan, Yap, and Menado, Holland, would be settled on a basis of recognition of Holland's rights therein.

NO AGREEMENT REACHED.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—No agreement has been reached between the United States and Japan in the controversy over the status of the island of Yap, but there is now every prospect that the two nations will come together over the matter prior to the holding of the Washington conference on armaments and Pacific problems.

Secretary of State Hughes and Baron Shidehara, the Japanese ambassador, have been engaged in informal conversations on the subject of Yap for some months, and from time to time it has been authoritatively announced that progress was being made.

In anticipation of an agreement Secretary Hughes refused to enter into any details of the pending proposals for a settlement. But there was renewed interest in the matter tonight on the basis of Tokyo newspaper statements that Japanese foreign office advice indicated that the points at issue between Japan and the United States would soon be settled on the basis of American recognition of the Japanese mandate over the island.

HULL, Aug. 31.—The body of Chief Machinist Mate George Hull, U. S. N., who lived at 48 Laurel street, Elgin, Ill., was recovered from the wreckage of the ZR-2 today and brought ashore wrapped in the Stars and Stripes and the union jack.

Later the salvage crew recovered the body of Commander Louis H. Maxwell, U. S. N., of St. Paul, Minn., who was to have commanded the ZR-2 on its flight to America.

It has been announced that an American and British memorial service will be held in Westminster abbey on Sept. 7, but the bodies of the American sailors will not be in the abbey during the service, they being already en route to Plymouth, from where they will be taken to the United States on the British cruiser Dauntless.

MILITARY STOPS BELFAST TERROR; NINE ARE SLAIN

Mayor's Criticism Stings Troops to Action.

BULLETIN. (Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.) BELFAST, Aug. 31.—The Ulster cabinet, the lord mayor of Belfast, military officials, and police officers held a conference to take steps to stop the riots this evening. It was decided to draft additional troops into the city and to take other steps to preserve peace. Although there was a lull in the fighting during the early part of the evening, the rioting broke out afresh about 8 p. m., four young men being shot.

BY JOHN STEELE. (Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.) LONDON, Aug. 31.—The Belfast riots continued furiously today, one more man being killed and many wounded. Five died in the hospital yesterday, making the total deaths since Monday nine. The official figures show over fifty wounded, but the real number is probably in the hundreds, owing to the habit of the Belfast rioters to conceal their minor, and sometimes even major, casualties.

This morning the lord mayor proposed to the officer commanding the troops at the inaction of the military, who have been contenting themselves with patrolling the streets in armored cars, pleading for a truce and not taking active measures to stop the fighting.

Following the protest the military took possession of the streets, posting pickets everywhere, and the situation now is reported as quieter.

One Hundred Year Old Victim. Among the casualties today was Mary McCracken, 100 years old, who was shot in the arm while standing at the door of her house.

Early this morning the fiercest fighting to date occurred. There seems to be little doubt that the fighting was started by the Orangemen, but the Catholics were not far behind. Catholic gunmen attacked Orange shipyard employees while on their way to work this morning, and the first clash of the battle began at Royal avenue and York street and soon spread to other principal streets, which soon became impassable. The street car service was stopped after a couple of passengers had been wounded by flying bullets.

Fire from Gardens. During the night the rioting spread to Antrim road, the middle class district, which heretofore has been free of fighting. Gunmen from both sides set front gardens, where they entrenched themselves and maintained a steady fire for hours. Sandbag barriers were also thrown up and from time to time heavy explosions of bombs were heard in all directions.

The religious line was drawn even during the night, as the lamp lighters refused to make their rounds owing to the risk.

Pastor Denies Riots. The Rev. John Pollock, a local clergyman, who has just returned from New York, where he presided at the Christian Endeavor convention, speaking at a Presbyterian meeting today, declared that the disgraceful condition in Belfast would not be endured for a day in the United States, where the government would put down the trouble in a few hours. A section of the Irish people, he said, professed a great regard for the American flag and he, a staunch loyalist, wished they could have the government of the Stars and Stripes for a short while, for then the Irish problem would be solved at least so far as the maintenance of law and order was concerned.

Sir James Craig today received a telegram from James Ray of Boston, president of the Ulster League of North America, saying that 80 per cent of the American people repudiated the agitation for an Irish republic and would unhesitatingly uphold the Ulster contention.

The Belfast chamber of commerce passed a resolution today calling on the Ulster government to reconsider the purchase of Stormont Castle for its parliament house. The reason for the action was not stated, but it was undoubtedly due to the belief that the separate Ulster parliament will be short lived.

King on Irish Peace. King George in a reply to a recent address by the Archbishop of Canterbury takes occasion to express gratitude that his plea for peace in Ireland has met with some measure of success.

"Let us thank God," wrote the king, "that some measure of response has been vouchsafed my appeal to the Irish people. With full heart I pray that reconciliation may be consummated by the deliberations now proceeding and that they may be united, making a new era for their native land."

WASHINGTON NEWS —IN BRIEF—

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 31.—The Mexican Supreme court decision forbidding confiscation of American and other foreign oil properties acquired before May 1, 1917, is regarded by administration officials as paving the way to a satisfactory understanding with Mexico.

Unless the insurrection in West Virginia ends before noon tomorrow, President Harding will at once proclaim martial law, throw two regiments of infantry into the disturbed area, and assume control of the five counties where the state authorities are unable to handle the situation.

Sales tax opponents are expected to line up against the proposal of Senator Smoot for a 3 per cent manufacturers' sales tax as a substitute for the miscellaneous taxes of the revenue bill as passed by the house.

FOUR KNIGHTS OF MAYWOOD STAY IN JAIL A NIGHT

Keep Vigil to "Save" Prisoner.

Four of Maywood's most prominent citizens—three of them officials of the village—passed Tuesday night in the village lockup. They had committed no crime and were charged with none. They were not even prisoners, except by their volition.

Their presence was due instead to a love for justice and as a protest against "third degree methods," which, they charge, the local police had employed.

A telephone received by the Maywood police from those of Evanston who were responsible for the all night vigil of the Maywood citizens. This message informed the Maywood police that a man wanted in Evanston for robbery was about to pass through their village. The make of the auto was specified.

Shortly afterwards Clarence Baransa, a Maywood policeman, stopped an auto of the make mentioned in the message. It was Milton Walker, who said he was an automobile mechanic and that he lived at 3159 Warren avenue. He was taken to the lockup, which is in the village hall.

There he was seen by the four citizens. They were M. C. Larson, village trustee; L. C. Johnson, village controller; C. M. Frees, village trustee, and William Mardolf. According to the four, Walker had evidently been roughly handled. He was covered with blood and bruises.

The sight aroused them to indignation and they protested, but the police paid little attention to them. They feared that if they left the village hall there would be a renewal of the "third degree."

"Let's stay and protect him," one of the four suggested.

The others agreed. The four stationed themselves at the door of the cell in which Walker was locked up.

There they remained all night. At times one of them managed to get a few winks of sleep, but always one of the four was on guard. The police did not disturb them or the prisoner.

Finally yesterday morning the police found some one to sign a complaint against Walker and he was booked. Then the four left the police station.

"We didn't know whether Walker was guilty or not, and we didn't care," explained Controller Johnson yesterday. "We didn't think that third degree methods should be permitted in America, however, so we stayed up to see that our village was not disgraced. That is all that I care to say about it."

AUSTRIA RUSHES ARMORED CARS TO FIGHT REBELS

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.) VIENNA, Aug. 31.—Austrian regular troops in armored cars are being rushed to the disputed territory, where the Hungarian rebels, under the command of Lieut. Hejlas, continued to hold Odenburg.

The West Hungarian population is fleeing to Austria, jamming the roads with their cars and their live stock which they are taking with them.

The allied officers are preparing to take command of the operations in the disputed zone and to force the Hejlas forces to evacuate.

It was announced today that the Austrian casualties in the fighting include three killed, sixteen wounded, and twelve missing. The Austrians are using Eisenstadt as a base for their operations.

Therefore the knickerbocker girls invite all Chicago girls who will join the Knickerbocker club to meet them Saturday, Sept. 3, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon in the gray room of Hotel Sherman.

If you attend this initial meeting with the same enthusiasm you exhibited in writing your pledge letters there will be a Knickerbocker club.

It will not be necessary to wear knickers to the meeting. Come in your street clothes. The knicker girls will tell you where you can buy knickerbockers at reasonable prices.

The Benson Orchestra of Chicago

The Bensons—the orchestra all Chicago is talking about—has recorded two fascinating fox trots for the Victor Studios.

One is Na-Jo, with the curious American-Indian drum-beatings, wailing string melodies and acid-biting tone-colors which are so beloved by fox trotters. San is no less distinctive. It is full of Japanese waltz or soft banyan music, and is alternately soothing and disturbing in emotional effect. The rhythm is steady, tone full, rich and strong. Both selections on 10-inch Victor Record No. 18779—85c.

Two Other Victor Record Hits
You're the Sweetest Girl—Medley Fox Trot—White man and His Orchestra.
Vamping Rose—Fox Trot—All Star Trio and Their Orchestra.

"You're the Sweetest Girl" is brilliant and varied in its orchestral effects. "Vamping Rose" features a saxophone solo and a xylophone. Plenty of life. Fox trotters will like these two selections. Both on Victor Record No. 18783—10-inch—85c.

In My Tippy Canoe—Waltz
—Hackel Berge Orchestra.
Where the Lazy Mississippi Flows—Waltz
—Hackel Berge Orchestra.

Recorded by that famous orchestra whose chief members were formerly with McKee's Orchestra and Castle House. These are charming waltz numbers. Both on Victor Record No. 18783—10-inch—85c.

GERMAN PEOPLE BACK REPUBLIC IN BIG TURNOUT

300,000 Decry Political Murder.

BULLETIN. (Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.) BERLIN, Sept. 1.—It is reported from Munich that the Bavarian cabinet has adopted a resolution disapproving of the Ebert government's decision to suppress the reactionary Bavarian newspapers.

BY DONALD STONE. (Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.) [Copyright: 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.] BERLIN, Aug. 31.—More than 300,000 workmen and employers—Democrats, Socialists, Independent Socialists, and center party men—from all the factories, plants, and business organizations throughout Germany left work this afternoon in order to take part in meetings held "for the republic and against political murder," so the banners said.

In order to keep the waterworks, street cars, electric plants, and hospitals from complete stoppage representatives were left, but in some towns, such as Hamburg, they announced a complete stoppage of everything for an hour.

Iron Hand Near. Although the demonstrations were favorable to the present government, it was feared that extremists might try to provoke clashes, and therefore auto trucks with policemen armed with machine guns passed through the streets of Berlin on their way to the courtyards of public buildings, where they were kept hidden for emergencies.

Despite the fact that high officials considered the day most critical, the members of the cabinet and other high officials, including even Chief of Public Order, Weismann, left town to attend the funeral of Herr Erzberger. It was rumored that the main reason for their trip to south Germany was because of the dissatisfaction of the south German governments with the presidential decree on the press and public meetings.

Overflow in Lustgarten. More than an hour before the time set for the demonstration more than 100,000 persons had filled the Lustgarten, overflowing into the side streets, while more kept streaming in with red flags and republican and anti-reactionary placards calling for the capture and execution of Erzberger's murderers.

In the trim little Badish town of Odenburg, which the eighteen-year-old, trusted Erzberger with the right to represent the district in the reichstag, German officials gathered to pay tribute last respects to the late German leader. The pope sent special representatives.

The Benson Orchestra of Chicago

The Bensons—the orchestra all Chicago is talking about—has recorded two fascinating fox trots for the Victor Studios.

One is Na-Jo, with the curious American-Indian drum-beatings, wailing string melodies and acid-biting tone-colors which are so beloved by fox trotters. San is no less distinctive. It is full of Japanese waltz or soft banyan music, and is alternately soothing and disturbing in emotional effect. The rhythm is steady, tone full, rich and strong. Both selections on 10-inch Victor Record No. 18779—85c.

Two Other Victor Record Hits
You're the Sweetest Girl—Medley Fox Trot—White man and His Orchestra.
Vamping Rose—Fox Trot—All Star Trio and Their Orchestra.

"You're the Sweetest Girl" is brilliant and varied in its orchestral effects. "Vamping Rose" features a saxophone solo and a xylophone. Plenty of life. Fox trotters will like these two selections. Both on Victor Record No. 18783—10-inch—85c.

In My Tippy Canoe—Waltz
—Hackel Berge Orchestra.
Where the Lazy Mississippi Flows—Waltz
—Hackel Berge Orchestra.

Recorded by that famous orchestra whose chief members were formerly with McKee's Orchestra and Castle House. These are charming waltz numbers. Both on Victor Record No. 18783—10-inch—85c.

2 POLITE BANDITS ROB EVERY MAN ON A U. P. TRAIN

Women on Los Angeles Cars Escape.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Aug. 31.—The Los Angeles Limited, No. 7, Union Pacific system, was held up by two masked and armed robbers shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon near Clearfield, nine miles south of Ogden, while on the way from Ogden to Salt Lake City. All the male passengers were robbed.

The train was stopped by an automatic block signal. The two robbers, each about 30 years old, boarded the train and commanded every one in the observation car to hold up his hands. While one gathered loot there the other proceeded to the other cars. The exact amount taken is not known.

Robbers Are Methodical. The train is not scheduled to stop between Ogden and Salt Lake City. After a few minutes' delay the robbers signaled to Robert Hayes, the conductor, to have the train started. It came on toward Salt Lake City.

Nearing the outskirts of the city the robbers pulled the hood and again brought the train to a standstill. They alighted and escaped in the northern part of the city.

One passenger in the observation car, rather than hold up his hands, jumped from the train. As he was fleeing one of the bandits shot at him.

Only One Woman Molested. L. A. Torrens and wife of New York, occupying a drawing room, were among the victims. They reported a loss of $13. H. M. Grunder, a commercial traveler of Salt Lake City, reported a loss of $75.

The women and children on the train were not molested, with the exception of Mrs. Torrens. While the train was speeding here one passenger scribbled a note and threw it out of a window. It was a notification that the train had been held up. A railroad employe picked it up and telephoned to headquarters here. A posse was immediately organized, but by the time it reached the incoming train the robbers had departed.

MOSCOW RUSHES 1,400 GRAIN CARS TO HELP TARTARS

Relief Begins to Pour 'Into Russia.

BY GEORGE SELDES.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.]
RIGA, Aug. 31.—The Soviet has announced that 1,400 freight cars are being rushed to Riga to bring grain to the Tartar republics which are suffering most from the famine, 75 per cent of the children there dying from lack of nourishment.

The Soviet agents announce that 2,400,000 krones [normally about $300,000], which was donated by the Danes is going to the relief of the Tartar children.

Gold from Moscow.

A week ago the Soviet embassy received the first shipment of gold made in many weeks, and it immediately began to purchase seed rye for which it paid a high price. Three contracts were made with Sweden and one with Denmark, the prices paid ranging from 380 krones [normally about $95] to 440 krones [$110] per ton. The Russians were not satisfied with their bargain with the Swedes as the latter lacked ships to transport the grain.

Owing to the slow collection of the grain tax a decree authorizing a potato tax which it is expected will yield 900,000 tons of potatoes.

Fourteen Cars of Food.

The Moscow government has warmly thanked the Estonian government for fourteen cars of food which arrived in the Russian capital on August 29, the Estonian relief being the first aid actually received in Moscow.

The Petrograd staff of the American Relief Administration, consisting of Charles Bowden, formerly with the organization Budapest, Donald Cowie and Albert Inoos, left for the former Russian capital to open a kitchen. It is expected it will be in operation within a week.

Yanks Avoid Pool.

PARIS, Aug. 31.—The delegates representing Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, and Japan, who are members of the subcommittee, today appeared to be disappointed over the refusal of the American relief administration to pool its work with the general plan of relief which the committee hopes to work out. After hearing Mr. Brown's explanation of the relief administration's attitude, the committee adopted a resolution recommending to the various governments that they authorize immediate coordination of all plans now under way.

Mr. Brown took no official note of this resolution, inasmuch as he had made clear to the delegates that his position was one of "unofficial observer."

American Relief Swift.

RIGA, Aug. 31.—[By the Associated Press.]—American food for starving Russian children is rapidly being unloaded at Riga and Reval. Eleven cars, carrying fifteen tons each, left Riga last night, with facilities for shipment increasing daily.

Each ton of food is sufficient to feed 1,000 children one week. At the rate American supplies now are being forwarded to Moscow, that base will have enough in the first shipments to feed approximately 30,000. The first shipment of 6,000 cases of milk left Reval yesterday, and a relief ship was being unloaded at Petrograd today.

CHICAGO MAN FIRST TO SEND FOOD TO VOLGA

Shutoff of Chita Rushes 1,160 Tons Daily.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.]
CHITA, Aug. 31.—[By Courier to Harbin.]—Here in the capital of the Far Eastern republic is one of the unsung heroes of the Russian famine. With American methods, which he adapts, Vladimir Bergslavich Shatoff, known to the I. W. W. in America as plain Bill, is the first man in the world to lay down food by the trainloads in the Volga valley, and he still is doing it.

Rushes First Relief.

Vladimir (or William) Shatoff is a former resident of Chicago as an organizer of the I. W. W., and he has seen the inside of many American jails, fourteen times in Detroit alone, by reason of his soap box oratory. As a watchful hobo traveler he saw American railroads from the inside. He is using this information as minister of transportation and communication of the Far Eastern republic.

When the Russian famine grew bad and Moscow called for help, Mr. Shatoff rushed out in the war-mangled railway yards of the trans-Siberian road, managed to get enough cars and engines that would go for three trains, and every day since that time that equipment was available he has been sending three trains daily loaded to the limit of 1,160 tons of food and supplies. This is the utmost limit of food transport possible on the trans-Siberian.

Frantic for Food.

The larder in Siberia is very slender and clothes are not too numerous for this cold winter climate, but the minister manages to scrape enough to get together to fill the cars. All he can send, of course, is only a drop in the bucket for the complete relief of the famine. The Soviet officials in the famine regions still are asking for heavy clothing for all ages, children's underwear, sweaters, boots, and rugs for combating cholera and typhoid fever. Appeals for food have become frantic.

large containing 250 families of 1,000 people. Now it is reduced almost one-third by starvation, cholera, typhus, and flight. Some families still maintain a skeleton cow or horse, which they refused to devour for food because "it would not be Christian" to destroy animals necessary for the next harvest, which none of these villagers are likely to live to see.

Although the village is comprised of a single clan, speaking a language of its own, it resembled in houses and customs of the people a number of others which we visited today, except that in Mordovskaya, Borkovka there were more starved faces, more wasted frames stretched out in bed, and less sign of life abroad.

The news of strangers' arrival finally brought several dozen villagers to their windows and doors, among them the village doctor, who himself was yellow and shrunken almost to a point where his shell rimmed spectacles send several times too large and his umbrella, encased in a black woollen cover, looked almost as thick as his body.

Food Only Need.
"There is nothing that I can do," the doctor said. "They ask for medicine. It is not medicine that they need, but food, and there is none. These fields are bare for nine miles. Some of the people go out into the fields and die of exhaustion. They never come back. We hear of them no more."

"It saves us the painful exertion of burial. I do not believe here. I am a medical professor at Samara. The Soviet mobilized me and sent me here to care for these people, but I have nothing to feed them, and I know of no way that anything can be sent here."

"I have been ordered to remain, so I expect to die with them, and I do not think that my death is more than a month away. I am old and it does not matter, but it is the children that seem to die first. They drop over in the street. We old ones just live on—gnawing our way to death day by day and dreaming of it at night. God pity us."

ILLINOIS AUTOMOBILE CLUB Motorists, Attention!

This Car Is Towed Free!

WRECKED in a smashup out on the open road in Cook county, its owner has telephoned for help to the Illinois Automobile Club. The night operator at Victory 3200 has flashed the distress signal to the nearest I. A. C. service station. The floating service car has rushed to the scene. The wrecked car is seen in this picture being towed into a haven of safety—one of the 220 official I. A. C. garages scattered over Cook county.

"How can you do it?" asks a member in a letter of appreciation to the club.

"It was my misfortune to have my car hit by an automobile on 95th street. It was disabled. I was far from home and it was late at night. My first thought was to telephone the auto club. I went to the nearest house and telephoned to the I. A. C. The operator at Victory 3200 said a service man would be there in twenty minutes. He was there in little more than half that time. My car was towed to the nearest garage of the club, was repaired and all insurance claims adjusted promptly. If the dues were $30 a year instead of $10 I would still be a member. I call this real service."

Testing branches of the I. A. C. where membership is being received: Rochdale Department Store, automobile repair department, 7th floor, Marshall Field, 3rd floor, 5th floor, 2nd floor.

ILLINOIS G. O. P. CONGRESSMEN CONTENT IN JOBS

So, All Except Cannon Gird for Primary Fray.

BY E. O. PHILLIPS.

With Uncle Joe Cannon figured out of the political game, the congressional race in Illinois opens for the April primaries with all other present Republican members of congress candidates for reelection. They have started preliminary contests and have indicated sufficiently to the county leaders, prospective postmasters and others that they are ready and willing for the fray.

Emphasis was given the unofficial statement that Uncle Joe is not to seek a reelection by word that came up from the Danville district that the "state" organization has known of Mr. Cannon's expected retirement for many a day and that State Senator Richard R. Meents of Ironwood county has been picked as the preferred candidate of Gov. Small for the place. It is recalled that it was Senator Meents who issued the statement during the state fair that Gov. Small is to be a candidate for reelection for governor.

"Uncle Joe" Delays Statement. During the day "Uncle Joe" said at Washington he was not yet ready to make any formal announcement of his intentions.

"My first duty here is to the people of the Eighteenth Illinois district and in political plans I have always consulted the wishes of the Republican organization in that district," Mr. Cannon said. "I have been pretty busy here during the extra session and have not been home since last November. I have made no announcement as to my future plans and will not do so until I have consulted the people at home, when that announcement will be made to them before I take the world into my confidence. I must beg to be excused from discussing the statement from Chicago."

466 Members in Next House. Illinois Republicans learn from "the inside" that the compromise agreement in congress is that the house of representatives to be elected in November, 1922, is to consist of 466 members. If it is carried out, it means Illinois will nominate three congressmen at large next April.

Congressman at Large Richard Yates will be a candidate for reelection, and probably is assured of it in the judgment of leaders in all Republican factional camps.

Henry R. Rathbone, who was a candidate two years ago, is already started. Mrs. Winifred Mason Huck, daughter of the late William E. Mason, undoubtedly will be a candidate, with the open support of the state administration and the city hall in Chicago. John J. Brown of Vandalia, it is understood, is again to be a candidate.

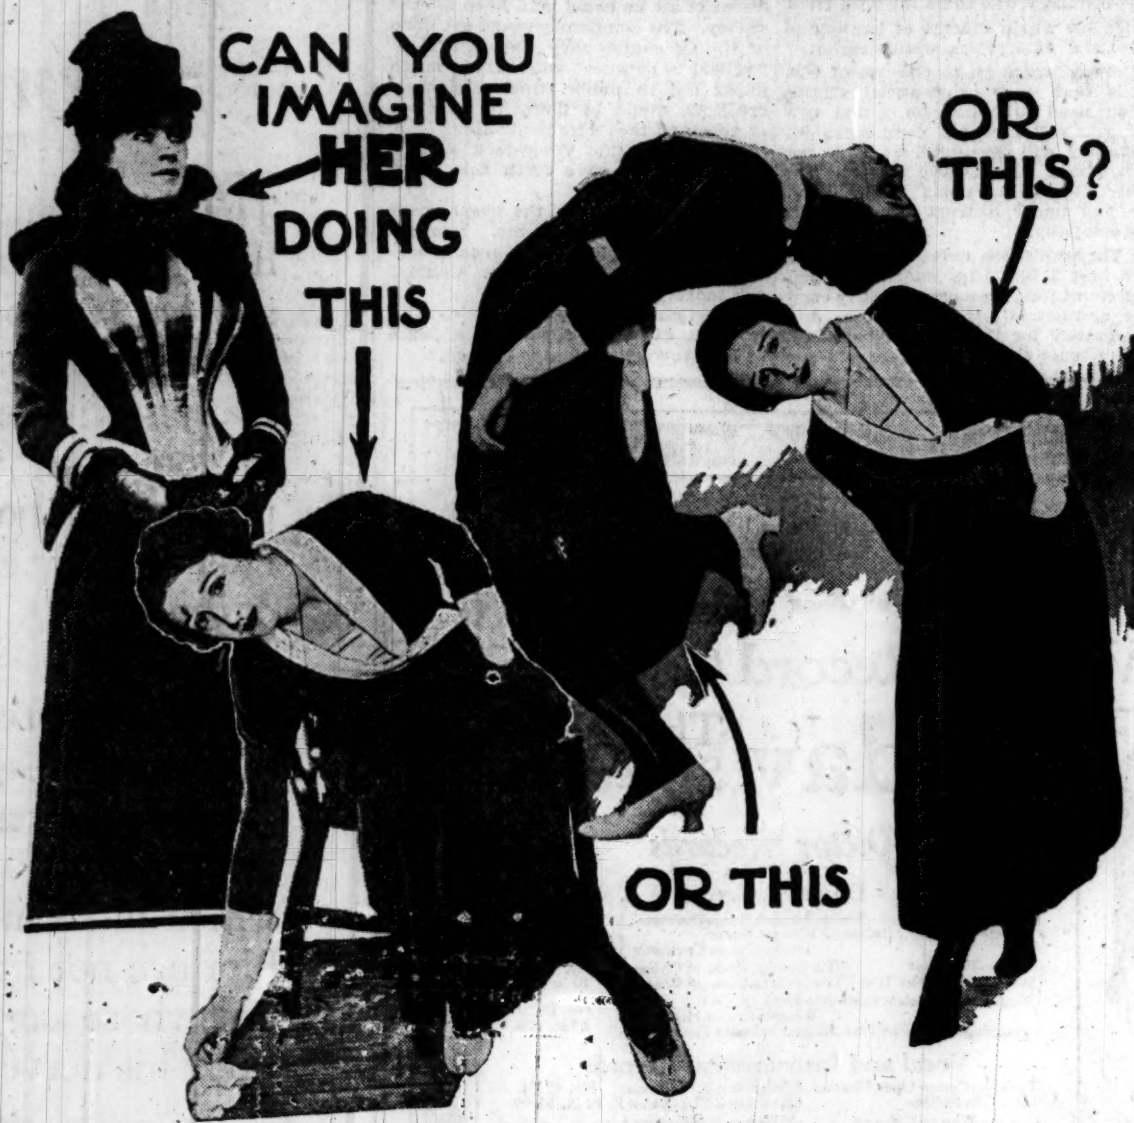

The latest possibility in the race, according to Washington suggestions, is that State Senator Richard J. Barr of Joliet may become a candidate, with the chance of having support from all factions that were murdering each other last year.

Up to this time no opposition has appeared to any sitting Republican congressman.

Rathbone May Be Candidate.

Former Congressman Henry T. Rathbone, in the Jacksonville district, may seek to come back from that normally Democratic bailiwick, now represented by Congressman Shaw of Beardstown. The primary possibilities in the ten Chicago districts, Republican and Democratic, now appear to be dependent entirely on negotiations about to start in connection with a coalition county ticket.

Is Another Feminine Tradition on Its Way?

Here is shown a corseted woman of another period, stiffened and braced to a point where breathing, to say nothing of free movement, is difficult. Then there is the girl off today, dressed to conform with grace and ease.

'THROW CORSETS AWAY TO KEEP DOCTORS AWAY'

Noted Woman Physician Gives Advice.

BY MARTHA.

"Martha, Martha, thou has troubled thyself about many things."

Has the corset joined the goose step, the booze, and the courteous waiter and gone for keeps?

Is it true that our women no longer wear the confining stays "to make their figures beautiful"?

Dr. Katherine Corcoran, high medical director of the Woman's Catholic Order of Foresters, yesterday caused a small sensation when, addressing the National Fraternal Congress of America, she stated: "Woman, now emancipated from the supports of steel which so long shackled her, is becoming a new type."

Terms Present Style Ideal.

The corsets are no more, the doctor said. The "uncorseted figure" affected by the present day woman is the ideal, she asserted.

"Going without corsets is a good substitute for the old time medicine bottle," Dr. Corcoran continued, "and their absence sometimes does away with the never ending round of treatments and massage."

"Women for the first time are giving their bodies a chance to develop naturally. As a result, the present day woman is capable of achievements equal almost to those of men."

However, there are those in Chicago who do not believe the modern woman has definitely relegated the corset to the forgotten past.

Paris Still Decries Them.

"I have just returned from Paris," said a woman, who buys corsets for a State street department store. "I find that the Parisian style dictators assert more strongly than ever the need for the corset."

"I will grant you that the old time high bust, heavy steel corset has passed and that the stays women wear now are much more sensible and comfortable, but women do and will continue to wear corsets."

"In our store we sell twice as many corsets as we did a year ago. The corsets are lighter in weight and are not made of the expensive materials any more. Women cannot afford to pay the old prices for corsets, but they buy cheaper ones and more of them."

Fool Even Dancing Partners.

"But I have danced with fifty girls in the last month and not one wore a corset," said a man.

"Ah, my boy, you didn't know," smiled the buyer. She then opened a box and showed two modern corsets.

"See how light they are! The modern corset simply confines the hips, holds up the stockings—that's about all. But the girls wear them—they wouldn't know."

John J. Mahoney, a physician who has just returned from a summer in Paris, did not entirely agree with the buyer.

"I agree with Dr. Corcoran," he said. "I spent June and July in Paris and I don't believe the women there wear them. It is so in every city which I visited."

"The women of the present day are paying more attention to their work and their sports than they are to their hearts and their appearances."

REFUSES JOB ON INDUSTRY BOARD

Ald. Robert R. Jackson, Negro alderman from the old Second ward, indicated yesterday that he will not accept his appointment by Gov. Small as a member of the Illinois Industrial Commission at a salary of $5,000 a year.

"I find that my business affairs will not permit me to give the time to the commission which would be necessary," Ald. Jackson said.

Ald. Jackson is placed in the new Third ward by the fifty ward plan. He is regarded as the Lundin-Thompson leader of the ward. He has served sixteen years in various elective positions.

Harding Will Open U. S. War College with a Speech

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—President Harding will deliver an address tomorrow at the opening of the fall term of the War college in this city. It was said today at the White House.

PROTESTS BRING ACTION TO END GARBAGE EVILS

Spurred by the insistent and incessant complaints of their constituents concerning heaped up garbage cans and cluttered alleys, aldermen flocked to the city hall yesterday. They gathered in knots in the aldermanic lounge and swapped experiences.

Even Ald. Benjamin S. Wilson, a strong Lundin-Thompson adherent, admitted that conditions in his home ward, the Thirtieth, were bad.

"I hate to go home," he said. "There are only two garbage carts to cover alleys between 68th and 110th streets. It's a fright."

Ald. John S. Clark declared that the excuse for conditions advanced by the city administration—the long haul necessary to deliver refuse to outlying dumps—"is no excuse at all."

Temporary relief is expected beginning today when the $24,000 available for waste disposal during September becomes available.

CLINNIN IN RACE AS STATE CHIEF OF LEGIONNAIRES

Col. John V. Clinnin, acting United States District attorney, announced yesterday his candidacy for commander of the Illinois department of the American Legion in the October election.

The planks in Col. Clinnin's platform follow:

One term as commander without pay or compensation for services rendered; care of the wounded, sick, and disabled comrades and their dependents; a campaign for a state and national adjusted compensation law and a campaign to increase the Illinois membership to 100,000.

Col. Clinnin's military record dates from Oct. 15, 1894, when he enlisted as a private in the national guard, to June 12, 1921, when he resigned as colonel of the 6th infantry.

LIFE STORY OF "SWINDLE KING" TOLD BY DUPE

"I'm Sittin' Pretty," Is French's Comment.

his name as president. Then he had a hundred annual passes printed. One of these was sent to every railroad president in the country, with the request that there be granted an "exchange of courtesies." He thus achieved free transportation anywhere in the nation. There isn't any record of the other railway presidents riding on his line.

In 1889 French opened an office in the old Mansfield Savings Bank building, Miss Albert Walker of Sandusky was his "private secretary." He married her on June 27, 1890; her mother and two sisters, Mable and Lush, and a brother, George, came to live with her. French bought a spirited team of horses and a victoria. Then he added a colored coachman and the equipment became a feature on the streets of Mansfield.

"Promotes" Himself an Engineer. In his development of the "rail line" French had to have an engine. He first borrowed a locomotive from the Pennsylvania. When they asked him to return it, he told them to come and get it. When they came they found he had removed parts of the engine and had hidden them in a storehouse full of dynamite. They didn't get the engine.

A few months later he induced the Baldwin Locomotive works to ship him a ninety-ton engine on credit. It had French's name painted under the cab window. The only trouble was that the locomotive works didn't pay the freight on it, and while French was out hustling for the necessary $212 they came and took the engine back.

Another Railroad Deal. Later French left Mansfield for Akron, and opened up a suite of offices still remembered with awe in the Ohio town. He promoted a railroad from Akron to Mogadore, built part of it and bought an engine. French said it was the biggest engine in the world. It was so big, in fact, that it broke down the tracks laid.

Nathan M. Berk, Akron capitalist, who had loaned money to French, levied on the engine. To get it away from French he had to carry it some where and he chose Akron's main street. With steam up and whistles blowing the engine puffed slowly along until it came to a crossing and the sewer pipes below gave way.

When the wreck was cleared Berk gave the remains to the Akron Pottery company and then had French arrested. The promoter spent some time in jail; he later gained his freedom and was never brought to trial.

This episode over, French talked the late P. M. Camp of Akron out of his Ashland and Custaloga railroad, now a subsidiary of the Pennsylvania. He ran it into receivership.

Obeys Greeley's Admonition. Thus life passed until 1910. At that time French, looking around for new fields to conquer, chose the Pacific

Field Marshal Buelow
Born 1844. Died Aug. 31, 1921.

COUNT KARL VON BUELOW.
(Photo Underwood & Underwood.)
BERLIN, Aug. 31.—(By the Associated Press.)—Field Marshal Count Karl von Buelow, commander of the 2d German army during the war, died here today.

Marshal Buelow, who was 76 years old, was one of Germany's leading commanders during the war. He was raised to the rank of field marshal Jan. 27, 1918 on the fifty-sixth anniversary of the kaiser's birth.

He rented a private car from the Pullman company for himself and family at $50 a day—supplies being furnished by the company. He went to Los Angeles.

There he bloomed as promoter of a $100,000,000 steel corporation—destined to "freeze out" such little concerns as the United States Steel corporation.

His private car, his display of wealth, his his "gift of gab" won him the attention everywhere. Gen. Harrison Grey Otis of the Los Angeles Times, M. H. De Young of the San Francisco Chronicle—even Hiram Johnson, later presidential aspirant, listened to his song. There was a banquet given him in San Francisco where prominent business men were present. French had told glowingly his plans for transporting ore from the Utah iron beds to a giant smelter at San Diego; he talked of millions to be poured into the concern and of the millions they'd take out. Just as he reached the climax of his peroration, a man tapped on his shoulder.

"Bad Check" Spoils Plains. It was a deputy from Salt Lake City; the charge was a "bum check" for $4.38. French departed from the city after this and went to Arizona. He owed the Pullman company 135 days' rent on his private car.

In 1914 he appeared again—this time with Alva Harshman, now under arrest here. He formed a company and bonded it—he sold the bonds in Belgium for $750,000. Then he broached his steel project again. Another crowd of moneyed men were interested.

French planned, he said, an enormous industrial plant at Victoria, B. C., a score of "Pacific companies" in each industry, each capitalized in millions.

He rented two private cars for this trip and with a flock of secretaries and another flock of dupes journeyed from San Francisco to Vancouver.

When they got there the world was broken out; his friends deserted him because they said he couldn't raise the money to carry out his schemes.

Attracts Government's Eye. French went back to San Francisco. There he evolved the note raising scheme on which the federal government is now holding him. He actually secured some hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of notes from a California capitalist named Tevis. Then French started east. He left a trail of discounted notes from San Francisco back to Mansfield. Some were protested—most were paid.

In Ohio again he renewed acquaintance with Z. W. Davis, Canton capitalist, who had lost more than $750,000 in his railroad schemes. Then French schemed a giant trust company at Kansas City, forerunner of a chain of banks.

This scheme, growing wilder in its possibilities daily, has persisted as his place de resistance for the last five years. A dozen times it seemed on the point of fruition; time and again it failed to climax at the crucial moment.

Then French, broke, resorted to check kiting. His bank accounts, his victims on his note scheme, reached into more than 400 towns and cities. And everywhere he worked there came financial crazies. French was arrested many times—he never yet has been convicted; it is said he never yet has served a day in jail because of a sentence.

He boasted of his immunity from capture; he laughed when victims came to plead with him.

He made huge sums of money and spent it freely. He'd give bell boys in hotels enough in a single tip to buy a suit of clothes, yet he himself looked dingy and unkempt much of the time. French's "note system," of which there has been so much talk, was this: He had a "tin box trust company," which was capitalized at $100,000,000. This company was to be the seed from which his whole scheme of banks and industrial enterprises would sprout.

French would go to officials of concerns that were in financial straits. "You need $150,000," he would say. "If you will give me your notes for $300,000 I will discount half at 10 percent, giving you $135,000 in cash. The other $150,000 in notes I will invest for you under a trust agreement in my company."

Through these notes I will pay off this first $150,000 in securities, which I discount for you, as fast as they come due, and extend your time of payment indefinitely for the $150,000 obligation to my trust company, if you will pay the interest charges. Thus we both will make some money."

The companies would "fall for this." Then French would take the notes, discount all he could, and keep all the money. The companies would get none of it. Of course they were afraid to "squelch" because with that much paper out in public knowledge their creditors would be likely to foreclose at once and they'd go bankrupt.

French at the Woodstock county jail yesterday, gave forth this interview:

"I'm sittin' pretty; the government hasn't got a thing on me. I've got a lawyer and I'm getting money and I'll get out of this all right. Could I ask more?"

But Col. Cinnin says: "I've him hooked. He'll get some fifteen years at Leavenworth. That is enough."

There is a sane, practical middle ground from which the subject of food may be considered, without undue appreciation of its relation to luxury, or too scant valuation of its proper function—the maintenance of efficiency in the tasks of the day.

Does it seem reasonable to you that a business man can hope to avoid the results of contenting himself with luncheons which his common sense tells him are not fit sustenance for one whose work draws heavily upon his nerve force?

The man who eats wisely and sleeps well has little to fear in hard work. Incidentally, the restaurants in which good food is well served are not so numerous that there need be confusion as to decision.

FOES OF DRY ACT HELP UNDERMINE LAW—DAUGHERTY

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 31.—Theories of political philosophy now advanced by those who either violate law or sympathize with law violators in industrial conflicts, agitation to upset American forms of government, and against enforcement of prohibition statutes, are the greatest forces at work in the United States to undermine respect for the law, Attorney General Daugherty declared today in an address before the American and Ohio bar associations.

Mr. Daugherty, who is equally at home in the courtroom and in the legislative hall, declared that a "hero of conscience" and "political prisoner," that is, a bootlegger, an exponent of "personal liberty," and sets the slogan of "human rights against property rights" in employment disputes. He asserted that such a policy is in all ways a failure and danger lay in all.

Remedy for Labor Troubles.
"Despite the bitterness shown during recent years in industrial disputes," Mr. Daugherty said, "statesmen, economists, and thinkers are unanimously divided as to a remedy, because they have not had at hand a trustworthy report of the facts in each case."

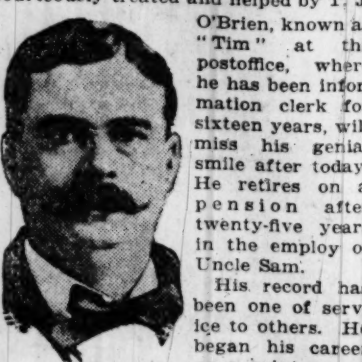

"It seems desirable," he concluded, "to this, that there should be some agency in government to investigate the facts of each case as it arises, make a finding and publish it to those concerned. Such publicity in most cases will be all sufficient to settle the question without further action."

Annals upon the prohibition amendment and laws, he continued, involved "an erroneous theory of personal liberty under our constitutional system."

Only Course to Pursue.
"They may still debate the wisdom

"TIM," ORACLE OF THE POSTOFFICE, TO RETIRE TODAY

Four million people who have been courteously treated and helped by T. J. O'Brien, known as "Tim," at the postoffice, where he has been information clerk for sixteen years, will miss his genial smile after today.

TIMOTHY J. O'BRIEN

He began his career as a printer, and is now a member of the Old Time Printers' association and an honorary member of Typographical union No. 18.

During 1900 he was president of the State Federation of Labor.

As the leader of labor in the state he was instrumental in having the exemption of married men in garnishment proceedings raised from $7 a week to $14. He is possessed of the gold pen with which Gov. Yates signed this bill.

"Tim" has been careful with his money, and now, with the $50 monthly pension, he speaks of closing up the home at 1646 North Lawndale avenue and wintering in California.

of the law," he asserted, "but there is only one course of conduct and that is obedience to the law while it exists."

"My duty is clear. As long as I am responsible head of the department of justice the law will be enforced with all the power possessed by the government which I am at liberty to call to my command."

Appointment of eighteen new federal judges, two for each circuit in the United States, to take care of the increased business of the courts, was urged before members of the judicial section of the American Bar association this afternoon by William Howard Taft, chief justice of the Supreme court of the United States. A bill for their appointment has been recommended to the President and congress by Attorney General Daugherty, the chief justice said.

Courts Used Less in Britain.

The average Englishman, with all of his proverbial insistence upon his personal rights, calls less often upon his courts for relief than does his American cousin, declared John W. Davis, former ambassador to England, in an address here tonight before the American Bar association, in which he gave "some random observations on the organization of the legal profession in England and the administration of English justice."

"Startling as it may seem, the litigation of England and Wales is relatively little more than the litigation in our federal courts alone," Mr. Davis said, "and the vast tide of controversy that flows through our state tribunals may be credited to us as surplus belligerency."

Revolts against tradition and authority has sprung up not only against the political state but in music, art, poetry, and commerce, until the age has become "presumptively false," Mr. Davis declared. James M. Beck, solicitor general of the United States, declared, Mr. Beck spoke on "The Spirit of Lawlessness."

"The statistics of our criminal courts in recent years show an unprecedented growth in crime," Mr. Beck said. "But this revolt against authority is not confined to the political state. In music, its fundamental canons have been thrown aside and discord has replaced harmony. Its culmination—jazz—is a musical crime."

"In the plastic arts the criteria of beauty have been swept aside by the futurists, cubists, vorticalists, and other aesthetic bohemians. In poetry, beauty of rhythm and nobility of thought have been replaced by exaltation of the grotesque and brutal."

"In commerce the revolt is one against purity of standards and the integrity of business morals. Who can question that this is preeminently the age of sham and counterfeits?"

Spirit of Lawlessness.

A spirit of lawlessness has always existed, Mr. Beck said, but cited the prevalence of burglaries, holdups, thefts, murder, and graft to show recent growth of lawlessness. Today people regard the lessons of the past as "presumptively false," he declared, and the burden is now upon "him who seeks to invoke them."

Sir John Simon, K. C., former attorney general of England and president of the British Bar association, paid tribute to the legal fraternity of the United States at tonight's session.

PREPARE FOR A HARD WINTER.

New York is looking forward to a hard winter. It has several hundred thousand men now out of employment. It fears it may have more. Therefore, instead of sitting quietly back and waiting for families to starve or freeze, for bread lines to form, and for men to be driven to crime to avoid starvation, the city is considering the problem now while the homeless can still sleep in the parks or pick up a meal on the truck patch beside the highway.

A committee has been appointed which is considering the use of the armories as sleeping quarters for homeless men; the working out of a program for feeding the needy; the immediate commencement of public works which have been authorized; the enlistment of the aid of organizations which have "war chests," such as the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., and Knights of Columbus.

That appears to us to be a wise idea. New York is not going to be alone in its troubles this winter. Chicago has its proportion of unemployed and will have its proportion of misery. Such misery can be better averted by perfecting preparations at once than by waiting until the snow flies. We will not let our people starve or freeze to death if we know it. How much better then would it be to make provision in advance instead of waiting until some frostbitten sufferer is dragged half-conscious out of a doorway into a police station to be restored to life with hot coffee and sandwiches. What New York is doing Chicago can do—and more. Why not now?

THE INSTINCT OF PROPERTY.

It was not till the allied cause tottered on the brink of ruin that a unified command was adopted, although all military science and history urged such action from the first. In Gen. Dawes' Journal of the Great War there is an interesting narrative of the effort to coordinate the rear under a unified direction to correspond to the unified front. Common sense and military principle alike commended such a course, but it was achieved only partially.

It is apropos of this experience that Gen. Dawes makes a profound observation: "The instinct of property," he writes on Sept. 13, 1918, "universal in mankind, makes difficult all questions in supplies. I have reflected upon the comparative ease with which military cooperation is secured as distinguished from supply cooperation. Perhaps the answer is this: that military cooperation is dictated not only from motives of self-preservation, but as well because in the broader sense it works for the protection of supplies and property, and the property instinct therefore supports instead of opposes it. But it is curious to see an officer cheerfully acquiesce in the sending of men to lose their lives in the battle line of an ally—as he should—and then favor a narrow policy in supply contribution."

We recommend this observation especially to social system makers and their ardent followers. The existing system of society called "capitalistic" by its critics is based on the instinct of property, and whatever its defects, it works. Whereas the main current of attack is by theorists who propose to replace it by a system which opposes the instinct of property by abolishing the right of private ownership and substituting a common ownership. This system has been tried in Russia and it does not work.

Gen. Dawes' citation is exceedingly pat and significant. It may be objected that only with reluctance men send other men to fight under foreign direction. But the fact remains that their reluctance in this war was overcome by the prospect of imminent ruin. Yet the same conditions which brought about unity of command over the fighting men failed to bring about the equally logical and sorely needed unification of supply. There it encountered the instinct of property, and there are few better illustrations that could be given of the resistant force of this instinct, for it was not an individual property but a national, which, nevertheless, had been absorbed by the individual.

Allowance may be made for the difference of pressure at front and rear, but this is more than counterbalanced by the difference in value between human life and human property. So that we may well share Gen. Dawes' wonder at the stubborn resistance to the appeal of reason and urgent need for cooperation and contribution in supply.

The instinct which compels the individual, whether he acts in behalf of his own property or as a trustee—the latter including managers of private property of all kinds—is one of the deepest in human life. The instinct of sex is perhaps deeper. The instinct founded in the need for food and drink is more essential. But the instinct of property or individual ownership undoubtedly is among the first and most enduring. As we have said elsewhere, it is a form of the instinct of self-preservation and it will never surrender. We are willing to accept agency of one form or another. We are willing, and in fact, it is necessary to a high form of society, to accept checks and regulations of the right. But we will not give up the right itself, for in the depths of our being it is a final defense of the individual existence, and to give it up means servitude.

System-makers ignore this and hide the weakness of their architecture by painting beautiful substitutes in the glowing colors of altruism. But self-preservation is the first law of nature and the instinct of individual ownership is an expression of that law.

This, of course, is only the negative though the most drastic aspect of the principle. What the instinct of property has done as a dynamic force, as a motive for human action, is another matter. In our day the instinct is full of propaganda which increasingly presents the excesses and evils of property. It would be well for us to consider the role it has played in human progress, in the energizing of effort, the encouragement of initiative, and the awakening of the foresight essential to the accumulation of reserves. Communism cannot produce a modern society in defiance of the instinct of property, and intelligent reform will seek not to abolish it or deny it, but to safeguard and enlighten it.

UNCOLLECTED GARBAGE.

In spots where Chicago is well cared for and kept clean it has an urban attractiveness which few cities can rival. For the most part these sections are under park management or have a park or boulevard as the center of their attractiveness. There the city is trim, well groomed, clean, and beautiful. The north lake shore section outclasses many a famous old world section for beauty.

In other spots the city seemingly succumbs to dirt. Part of it is smoke. That is a smear we seem unable to avoid. Part of it is a litter of refuse which could be avoided. Citizens have been complaining to their aldermen and the aldermen are blaming the administration for garbage, uncollected, which is filling the alleys. Charles R. Francis, commissioner of public works, says that there can be one good cleanup in September and then the disappearance of cleaning funds will mean the reappearance of the garbage heaps.

The city is well enough organized in one form, under park management, to achieve cleanliness and beauty. It is so badly organized under the municipal form that it cannot even keep potato parings and watermelon rinds out of the alleys.

WALL PAPER OPINIONS.

Some time ago THE TRIBUNE made a mistake and printed a picture of street fighting in Moscow as the picture of a recent disturbance. It was a photograph of shooting 'em down in the revolution of 1917, in Petrograd. After the mistake had been made, the picture was recognized, properly identified and a correction printed in the Big Boy Pardon department.

The New Republic new comes to bat with the statement that this was the most striking instance in the campaign of falsehood against Russia. "Lies, lies again and still they lie." The correction is described as an obscure item. It was in the "Big Boy Pardon" department which for years has been advertised as the department of correction, in which the paper acknowledges error and tries to set mistakes right.

The New Republic represents an intellectualism which has the cerebration of a roll of wall paper and a liberalism which has the processes of a hardware catalogue. Such intellectualism and liberalism have labels for events and facts and the mental functioning consists in attaching the label to the fact.

The case of Russia perfectly illustrates the application of formula. The attack in Russia was upon the fabric of human experience. It denied cause and effect and cause and effect ignored the denial. Russia went the way any rationalist knew it would go. Wall paper mentality cannot accept that because it is not in the catalogue. What is in the catalogue is a lying commercialized press, a great many money bags and an intent to ruin.

The Russian famine exists because THE TRIBUNE made a mistake in the description of a picture. If Eugene Debs were editor of the New York Times Russian peasants would have raised grain. If the editors of the New Republic controlled the American senate Lenin could have operated nationalized industries as competently as the Standard Oil company can run the oil business. If Bill Hayward were president of the National City Bank epidemics would not have grown out of the Russian flith.

A HINT FROM ESTHONIA.

A high official in the Estonian government remarks that the Russian government will not buy food for its people if it can obtain it for nothing from outside sources. He supports his view by the assertion that when the Estonian trade ministry offered to sell American canned meats to the Russians one of them said: "Why should we buy when the governments of other countries supply all that is required free?"

The point is worth testing. Ever since the seizure of power by Lenin and his associates, they seem to have had ample funds and have used at least some of them in propaganda of revolution against the governments and peoples upon which they now rely to save the Russian millions from starvation. What the gold or other resources now at the command of the bolshevik party may be no one can estimate, and doubtless it would be possible to find out. But some data may be available, and while our charity is for the individual sufferers, whose need is urgent, it is not improper to require the government, which has had so much to do toward creating their misery, to pay what it can toward their relief.

There may be little left of the Russian gold reserve, but Russia has means of payment in other forms, and it would be foolish to let the bolsheviks exploit outside philanthropy and retain intact the wealth they have seized and control for the enrichment of their own authority.

The problem is difficult and perhaps insoluble, but it should not be ignored. The Communist regime should be compelled, if possible, to do what it can for its victims.

Editorial of the Day

CONGRESS NOW AT HOME.

[Illinois State Journal.]

At a psychological hour, Congress takes a recess of one month. It is back home, where it may get a better perspective of its work since March 4, because its constituents will talk plain talk from their own viewpoint.

When it returns to Washington, it may be in better humor. Temper may have improved from contact with the people. At least some members will have an opportunity to cool off physically, and others may cool down mentally.

The record it leaves in Washington is not one to be especially proud of. The people are not inclined to view it with special approval.

Under pressure from the agricultural sections it adopted a temporary tariff law, designed to help that particular class. But the help it has given has not been material.

An attempt at permanent tariff making ended in a fiasco in the house. Conceded to be a makeshift from which the senate would eliminate the undesirable features, it has been sidetracked in the upper house and may not come to the surface before the first of the year. Then it will bear no marks of its original and the fight will have to be fought again in the house.

Revision, now recognized as the paramount issue, was permitted to slumber until a few weeks ago. The house has adopted a revision, but the senate is unprepared to act upon the subject. Final action cannot be expected until late in the fall. Pending that time business will be in suspense as to its taxes.

Perhaps four weeks of sober contemplation of its record from the home plate may have a stimulating effect and quicker and better results may be expected after the close of the recess.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Good-by, old top! Thy faithful service ended,
I now consign thee to obscurity;
No longer wilt thou lend security
To this bold poet, who thus haughtily defended
Against the sun's hot rays. And of a surety,
To judge by prime-beamed maturity,
Thou hast me well and loyally befriended.
Old pal, thru sunshine and thru cloudy weather,
At funerals, dances, picnics, bathing benches,
On fishing trips, excursions, baseball bleachers,
You and I have suffered much together.
Next spring, if still possessed of health and reason,
I may draft thee to serve another season!
P. D. GOG.

AFTER ALL, it is the trifles that distract one.
Our joy in the esthetics of the dining table, or, as Montaigne phrased it, the Gullet Science, is often blighted by the humble olive. We never know what to do with the seed. If one had a pea shooter and waiters had a sense of humor, the problem would, of course, be easy of solution, but—well, will some compassionate gourmet assuage us?

ASK ME, URSUS SAYS IF HE WROTE CAV-ALRY THEY WOULD MAKE IT CALVARY.
Sir: Writing from Florence in 1885 to A. de N.
Walker, Walter Savage Landor says: "Dear A. de N.: A folded sheet is come leaving a blank between pages 240 and 257. I am made to write endurated for indurated, spread for sprad, and Prolemies for Pulemies. God has preserved me from cutting my throat after this. Doyouever feel like that?
Tryon, N. C.

F. H. as his bus passes the w. k. glaring headlight flend: "Dim your lights, dim your lights."
F. H.'s w. k. "Change the light to a dearie, and let it go at that."

OH WAD S. D. S. G. HER.
Sir: In preparing some lectures for law students, I dictated, "This is a bill in equity." Transcribed by the new brand of gum, it came back,
"This is a bill in equity." Again, "In reference to the statement previously rendered, etc." It read, "statement previously rendered, etc."

THE Frogs—They Croaked.
Sir: The small-razor-blades-aquarium stuff reminds me of a quaint relative who used to live in the wilds of Indiana, near Brown county. His clerk was troubled with what he called wiggle-worms and it was the only source of drinking water. He died of them and, after a couple of deep ponders, caught three or four frogs and threw them down into the clerk. There were fewer wiggle-worms, but here comes a comely miss who frogs died, after several days. This is no nature faster story—it really happened, and when we drew out to see them, my mother always carried a closed pail of drinking water, 24 hours supply.

THE season is drawing to a close, M. A. C. invested in a special delivery stamp. Therefore (from the Omaha World-Herald): "Boy Shot in Melon Field."

ELEGY.
Sir: Behind the W. N. on the morning of many a self-grilling argument, taken place on the question, Should women stand? "Ah, here is a weary matron," one thinks, "whose day will be spoiled by strapping to the L. and N. and, though, I gave up my seat to such an one and she struggled over it—saying that, no, really, she knew I needed it as much as she. Bah! Rather than risk that again—But here comes a comely miss who would accept avidly. Still, the older woman will think, 'Of course, when one is young and pretty—' Besides, all the other men glare so, as if you were trying to teach them manners. . . . The matron departs. Glad I didn't. . . . How about this pretty dame, in animal and human life, beam;
after all one must think of one's neighbors.
Well, here's Randolph anyway. Let them scramble for it."

TO COL. BUTCHER.
When first you praised that writer's wit
I smoked a pipe o' baccy,
And thought the name might rhyme with it (Tho' smokin' pipes is tackey).
But when you said your further say (No word of which was knock-y),
My mind would dwell on English A (Sound as in jabberwocky).
Yet, the example pleased not me
(This fishy, like, or snaky).
Wherefore, I'm glad informed to
Dear Colonel, that 'tis Stray-chee!
JOHN DOE.

ONE must exercise eternal vigilance to keep abreast of the times these perilous days. When we gave the office bulletin board the daily double of this a. m. to call the latest hue and cry we called:
"Do You Know the Town? On what subject will Judge Olson talk for hours? What is the jug marked wood alcohol under Coroner Hoffman's desk? Have reporters any friends at the Blackstone? Who? Why? Otherwise we are profoundly neglected."

ABROAD AT HOME.
Sir: Almost had it at a lion. The Junior Goswog's wife went away for two weeks. That accounts for our failure to look at the assignment hook. But here we are again with a near-Whistler of LA SALLE STREET.

phenomena. Would-be financiers with handfuls of

This kind of stuff is inhibited by the Monroe doctrine, but space must be filled somehow:

Yet was he hoary, laden with the spoil
Of harvest riches, made his boot.
And him enriched with bounty of the soil.

Most gracious sir, your courtly mien
Has won my fondest favor;
Your fascinating repartee
Of knightly old, does savor.

Could you have seen me in this ditty

NATURE, CHEMICAL ENGINEER.

A STATE senator once told me the fish crop of Illinois sold for more money per acre of fish waters
than the per acre return of the corn crop of that state.

Nelson tells us that the value of the annual oyster crop of the country is $15,000,000—the equivalent of more than 400,000 dressed steers.
There is an enormous loss of good minerals into the waters every year. Some of this is in fertilizer which has washed away. Some is sewage and other organic matter drained into the waters.
In the waters nature has provided a biologic machine to recover this waste.

Microscopic forms of animal and vegetable life grow on this earth, changing it from lower into higher chemical compounds. The process of salvage is begun.

Higher plants and animals feed on the lower forms converting lower chemicals into higher. Fish eat lower forms and in turn are caught and eaten by man and other higher animals. Thus the elements wasted into the waters are salvaged for the land.

The story of the oyster tells the tale.
Oysters propagate by means of eggs.
Within six hours after fertilization the young oyster hatches. This young animal moves about partly by swimming and partly by floating, generally in a zone just below the surface of the water. Presumably at that point it gets just the food it wants, the water containing just the right amount of air and salt and the light is right. When two days old it drops into small shells, but a little paddling flap projects from the shell.

About the sixteenth day the young oyster sinks below the surface, picks out its own food, and settles down to life.
Whenever the water is sufficiently warm
the shell is open and water flows through the open way. Gross dirt is strained out and waste is retained. The organs of the oyster absorb bacteria, organic matter from leached soil, sewage, young plants and animal life feeding on organic matter, and all other outside matter which lives in the water. When the water is cold the oyster closes his shell and since little or no water passes through it does little or no feeding.

The quality of the water as feeding grounds for that water life which man uses as food is subject to change.
Taste and odor of Monona lake, Wisconsin,
all the other lakes of the state, as well as in Illinois waters as well as tests made in Germany show that increasing the amount of sewage in waters up to a certain point increases the numbers of bacteria and other organisms which live in them. On the other hand, if the pollution becomes excessive the decaying organic matter uses up all the oxy-

TAXATION.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—In your editorial on taxation you assume that the dictum of Adam Smith, that "taxes should be levied according to the ability to pay,"
is the correct principle to follow. This is far from the truth. It is mainly due to the unfortunate following of this rule that most of the economic ills of the world are due. This is very plain when understood.

Wealth is a good thing of and in itself. Its production should be encouraged. It is acquired either by producing it or getting it from some one else who has produced it. There is no other way. The producer should be encouraged, the nonproducer discouraged.
The broadest application is here given to the term wealth, as being the product either of mental or physical labor, or both.

In all commercial transactions the opposite rule obtains. The principle of taxing according to ability to pay.
The universally accepted doctrine is to pay according to benefits received. To call Rockefeller a horrible example (for he typifies wealth) when he receives an office, engages a room at a hotel,
buys a pair of shoes or a newspaper,
he pays according to benefits received.
If he had to pay according to ability,
he would have been bankrupt long ago
and it was general we all would be in the same condition.

A flat tax upon incomes, sales, or personal property of any kind can be shifted. An excess profit tax or any post facto percentage tax cannot be shifted. Who can it be shifted on? It may limit profits which could be used for further extension, of course, but from whom would the necessary tax
come if not taken from the employer?
Obviously the workers. Now who keeps factories going after they are put up,
the manufacturer or his customers?
Evidently demand is the foundation of all business prosperity. If the excess tax is abolished to afford the opportunity for the employer to use the surplus he retains in extending his business as you argue, it would be building prosperity from the top down instead of from the bottom up and would have inverted pyramids spinning around in the industrial air to topple over one after another. It is true the excess profits tax is unscientific, but, whether or
it is perhaps the least objectional of all now in vogue. The demand for the repeal of tax exemption on public necessities is another evidence of the prevailing legislative empiricism. The tax on them would be shifted on to the public in the shape of increased interest charges with a little additional added for trouble. Geo. C. OLCOTT.

SALE TAX FOES READY TO FIGHT BILL BY SMOOT

Senate Gives Right of Way to Revenue.

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Opponents of a sales tax are expected to line up against the proposal of Senator Smoot of Utah, a Republican member of the senate finance committee, for a 3 per cent tax on manufacturers' sales.

Although some of the objections advanced against the 1 per cent general turnover tax originally favored by Senator Smoot may not be offered against the manufacturers' sales tax, there seems little likelihood that the finance committee will approve the suggestion.

Resembles Canadian Tax.
The manufacturers' sales tax would be more like the Canadian sales tax than the plans heretofore urged most strongly in this country. The sales tax in Canada is applied to sales by manufacturers to retailers and also by jobbers to retailers, but not to the retail sales.

As in the case of the general turnover tax, the support of the manufacturers' sales tax comes chiefly from those who are anxious to get rid of miscellaneous excise taxes, such as the tax on jewelry, furs, and automobiles.

On the other hand, the theory of the miscellaneous taxes now on the statute books and those which are retained in the Fordney bill as passed by the house is to levy a tax on articles which either are luxuries or else are of common use, but not necessities. The bill which Senator Smoot will offer as a substitute for the house bill repeals all the miscellaneous taxes and also makes possible the repeal of the excess profits tax without any increase in the present flat 10 per cent corporation income tax.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon is expected to oppose the Smoot plan for a 3 per cent manufacturers' tax.

Taxes Get Right of Way.
Hearings on tariff legislation were suspended temporarily by the senate finance committee today so the committee may turn its attention to tax legislation. Tariff hearings will be resumed probably about Oct. 1.

One witness who approved a duty of 33 per cent on mushrooms provided in the house bill informed the committee that this insured the success of his mushroom plant, into which a brewery was converted with the advent of prohibition.

PURSE SNATCHERS IN AUTO ROB 4 WOMEN IN HOUR

Four women were robbed within an hour yesterday by two purse snatchers who sped through south side streets in a stolen auto.

At 39th street and Lake Park avenue the men leaped from their car and wrested a handbag containing $4 from Mrs. M. Krutner of 3843 Lake Park avenue. A second robbery was committed a few minutes later at 43d street and Greenwood avenue, where they grabbed a purse containing $2 from Mrs. Lydia O'Shea of 4351 Greenwood avenue. Mrs. O'Shea reported the theft to the police and said she believed the license number of the car was 437254.

While squads from the Hyde Park and Wabash avenue stations were touring the streets in search of the robber car, the bandits stole a third handbag and $3 from Mrs. Alice Ryan of 1824 South Green street.

Mrs. L. S. Rich of the Madison Park hotel was the fourth victim, her handbag containing a small amount of change being stolen from her near the hotel.

The police learned that the auto used by the robbers had been stolen from Dr. Louis Culver of Sandwich, Ill., in Grant park.

HELD ON GIRL'S CHANGE.
Herman Bogosch, 25 years old, of 220 North Fairfield avenue, owner of a boat plying between Lincoln park and the Municipal pier, was held to the grand jury by Judge Charles F. McKinley yesterday on the charge of harboring 15 year old Verona Veroli of 445 North La Salle street on his vessel.

MRS. DIBBLEE'S WILL BEQUEATHS CHARITY $35,000

Residue of Estate Goes to Two Daughters.

Requests of $35,000 to charity are made in the will of Mrs. Laura Dibblee, sister of the first Marshall Field, who died recently at her summer home in York Harbor, Me. The will was admitted to probate yesterday by Judge C. C. Corbett, assistant to the judge of the Probate court.

The bulk of the estate, which is estimated as being worth $500,000, is left to her daughters.

The largest charitable bequest is one of $10,000 to the Visiting Nurses' association. With the $30,000 is created the Fidelity Field memorial, which is to maintain one nurse of the association. Mrs. Dibblee, during her lifetime, was greatly interested in the work of the Visiting Nurses' association.

Bequests to Relatives.
Another bequest of $5,000 is made to the Country Home for Convalescent Children.

Other bequests are:
Laura Sprague, grandchild, $20,000.
Albert A. Sprague III, grandchild, $10,000.
John C. King, grandchild, $5,000.
John C. King, son-in-law, $5,000.
Albert A. Sprague II, son-in-law, $5,000.

Servants are Remembered.
Servants and employees of Mrs. Dibblee are not forgotten in the will. The following bequests are made to them:
John Malm, $5,000.
Augusta Carburg, $2,000.
Joseph McIntire, $2,000.
John Manning, $2,000.

The residue of the estate is divided among Mrs. Dibblee's two daughters, Mrs. Bertha King, wife of John C. King, now of New York City, and Mrs. Frances D. Sprague, the wife of A. A. Sprague II.

Get Field Fund Interest.
In addition to this estate the two daughters will receive the benefit of a trust fund of $500,000 as a result of their mother's death. The fund was established by Marshall Field for Mrs. Dibblee's daughters, but the mother had the right to the money accruing from it during her lifetime.

The Merchants Loan and Trust company, Mrs. Sprague and Mrs. King are named as executors of the will. The estate includes a large amount of personal property which has not been inventoried. Mrs. Dibblee died in her summer home in York Harbor, Me., of bronchial pneumonia, Aug. 14, and was buried last Saturday.

brings these—quaintly new, and refreshingly practical.

Catastrophes

"Purr, purr, purr!" said the wise, night black kitten! Why, indeed! One way to avert catastrophes is to keep doors from slamming—and who could believe that this droll black cat with tail aloft is a door-stop—and that another, demure white kitten, with cream on her whiskers, defies the gustiest wind to slam the heaviest door?

Foreign Shop—ninth floor.

Shackles of fashion

Clink! Clank! If you're to be at all fashionable these days, you must consent to wear chains. But it is a very delightful bondage—and entirely charming are the new, French narrow link girdles, combined either of black more or velvet and cut steel buckles. And indeed, who shall say this is not the missing link we've all been looking for since one of these girdles transforms the coat of yesterday into the tip of autumn mode?

Vanity! Vanity!

All is vanity and to get so much of it into one small job for such a small price is miraculous. This trifle to fit in your suitcase is a week-end box of vanities, fitted with powder, rouge, vanishing cream and lip rouge. It is so small and compact that when there is no possible space left in your suitcase it fits neatly in some subtle unseen corner.

"The Kid" himself

Did you weep and laugh at the movies over that small artist, Jackie Coogan? The spirit of this entirely precious little boy, with his wide eyes and winsome grin, has been caught by a clever sculptor—and the diminutive plaster cast figures are the tribute of one artist to another. It is Jackie himself—even to the "hiked-up overalls," and the cap over one ear. Prices 50c and $1.

Women's fall tailleurs: $50

HEART OF NATION BEATS TO "HERO TREE" TRIBUTE

Inquiries Come from All Parts of Country.

BY LEOLA ALLARD.

It was a busy call I got on Monday to the international headquarters of the Kiwanis club. Hans Hoefner said he was getting so many inquiries about the tree information that he wanted to give the information to the Kiwanis members. There isn't a Kiwanis club anywhere, and I found on the recent central states trip that in many localities the Kiwanis were the first to take charge of the tree plans for the community.

"We are receiving an increasing number of inquiries from our 550 clubs regarding this national undertaking," Mr. Hoefner said. "The Kiwanis members all over the country are in favor of a plan that means the placing of a great memorial in which they are eager to have a hand."

May Line Sheridan Road.
Through Daniel S. Wentworth, one of the national officers of the organization, it has already been suggested that the club take Sheridan road from Chicago to Milwaukee and transform it into a perfect memorial road to the glory of the world war soldiers. This road, passing through Great Lakes and Fort Sheridan, has an unusual appeal, and the discussion of the plan will take place in various Kiwanis clubs this week. There are in Chicago 1,000 members, who, Mr. Wentworth believes, will stand ready to do their bit in a truly spirited way.

The Roxana club of Madison, Wis., has a membership of men who are 90 per cent ex-service men, and the organization has evinced a lively interest in joining in the tree planting.

Kirkland, Ill., Interested.
Miss Bessie Myers writes from Kirkland, Ill., that the city has a newly organized woman's club. "I am a member of the civic committee," she says, "and would like more information on the Memory trees—what kind to plant and so forth."

Kenosha County to Draw Women for Jury Service

U.S. TELLS HOW 'MOVIE TRUST' STIFLED RIVALRY

Washington, Aug. 31.—The Famous Players-Lasky corporation and affiliated concerns, which the federal trade commission has formally charged with unfair competition and monopolistic policies, "combined and conspired to suppress competition in interstate commerce in motion picture films," according to summaries of the official complaint given out today.

The complaint declares that in 1920 the corporation in addition to owning 400 theaters supplied exclusively 6,000 of the total of 18,000 picture houses in the United States, which theaters obtained 67 cents of each $1 spent for admissions to picture showings in the country.

It is further charged that through 140 subsidiary corporations, the corporation played a part in the international field. Besides the corporation, the complaint personally cites Adolph Zukor, Jesse L. Lasky, Jules Mastbaum, Alfred S. Black, Stephen A. Lynch, and Ernest V. Richards Jr., all corporation officers.

Evanston Police Arrest Man in Stolen Togs

He was driving a machine stolen from A. T. Simons, 237 Sheridan road, Winnetka; wearing a silk shirt and a watch taken from the home of L. R. Benson, 145 Berling lane, Winnetka, and a pair of trousers belonging to Henry Skaer, 2320 Thayer street, Evanston. Wherefore the Evanston police put George Francis, an ex-convict, in the same cell from which he escaped eight years ago.

Illinois Central System Shows How Taxes Have a Bearing on Railway Rates

Notwithstanding that for the past twelve months the railroads as a whole have earned almost no net return on the capital invested in them, many persons insist that freight and passenger rates be reduced, regardless of the costs of producing that transportation service which the public must have. We wish, therefore, to direct attention to the fact that the costs of producing transportation are still relatively much higher than the rates. We think it fair to ask the public to give consideration to what the railroads are having to pay for labor, materials, locomotives, fuel, cars, taxes and interest on borrowed capital before passing final judgment upon the reasonableness of present freight and passenger rates.

It is true that, effective July 1, railway wages were reduced 12 per cent, but they are still 108 per cent higher than they were in 1914—the year of the beginning of the great war which upset everything. Road locomotives cost 123 per cent more, switch engines cost 144 per cent more, gondola cars cost 117 per cent more, refrigerator cars cost 107 per cent more, box cars cost 122 per cent more, steel passenger coaches cost 100 per cent more and locomotive fuel costs 138 per cent more at present than in 1914. The Illinois Central System sold bonds in 1914 on a basis yielding less than 5 per cent to the purchasers. It recently sold $8,000,000 of bonds running for fifteen years, and the best terms it was able to secure yielded a return of more than 7 per cent to the purchasers.

Take the single item of direct taxes for a ten-year period. The Class I railroads, which include all railroads having gross operating incomes of $1,000,000 or more annually, paid $98,626,848 in taxes in 1911. In 1920 the same railroads paid $278,868,668 in taxes, an increase of $180,241,820, or 183 per cent.

The Illinois Central System paid $3,278,107.96 in taxes in 1911, while in 1920 it paid $9,575,680.87, an increase of $6,297,572.91, or 192 per cent.

But these are not the only taxes affecting transportation charges. When the shipper pays his freight bill, he should remember that 3 per cent of what the railroad's bill otherwise would be is added and collected by the railroad as a transportation tax. Likewise, when the passenger pays for his ticket, he should remember that 8 per cent of what he otherwise would pay the railroad is added and collected for the government as a transportation tax. Patrons generally consider only the total cost of freight and passenger transportation, and many think the railroads get the whole amount.

The transportation tax collected by the railroads for the government on freight bills in 1920 totaled $120,710,329.80 and on passenger fares, $103,099,633.36—a grand total of $223,809,963.16. This vast sum is not included in any of the railway accounts. It was collected by the railroads acting as agents for the government and remitted directly to the government.

As the agent of the government the Illinois Central System collected from its patrons in 1920 the sum of $3,084,072.54 as transportation tax on freight, and $2,254,256.87 as transportation tax on passenger fares, a total of $5,338,329.41. This is not included in the above mentioned item of $9,575,680.87 direct taxes paid, but was collected and remitted directly to the government.

The question of abolishing the transportation tax is having consideration at Washington. The abolition of this tax would reduce railway rates without injury to the railroads.

We do not bring up the question of railway taxation in a spirit of complaint. We realize that all citizens and all businesses must bear their just proportion of the expense of government. We refer to the matter just now to make it clear that railway taxation must be added to the cost of transportation and necessarily has a bearing on freight and passenger rates.

The Illinois Central System has been striving for more than a year to present facts in regard to railway problems for the consideration of the public. The public will be able to decide for itself the advisability of such a course when it considers that the management of the Illinois Central System is the trustee of an investment in roadway and equipment of more than a half billion dollars. We realize that this property, and all railway property, will be dealt with accordingly as public sentiment develops and crystallizes. We feel, therefore, that we must present our case before the court of public opinion, and we are glad to do that, having an abiding faith in the fairness and justice of the people when they have the facts before them.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

C. H. MARKHAM,
President, Illinois Central System.

"So tired I was ready to cry" is what one woman wrote us she felt at the end of wash day.

Today she is fresh and happy on Monday night, ready to go out with her husband or play with the children. She is one of the hundreds of thousands of women who have let Rinso take the place of all the exhausting rubbing she used to do.

Rinso is made by the largest soap makers in the world, the same people who make Lux. After years of experimenting, they have perfected a soap product which has revolutionized wash day.

Rinso loosens all the dirt from even the heaviest pieces of the weekly wash. It soaks the clothes sweet and clean in a few hours without harming a single fabric.

GRAND JURY DIGS DEEP INTO CITY'S BUILDING GRAFT

After a three day session in which an investigation of the building material industry was launched with the questioning of a dozen witnesses drawn from the manufacturers of cut stone, the special building grand jury adjourned last night until Monday.

On that date witnesses having knowledge of conditions in the brick, cement, lumber, sheet metal, and terra cotta fields will be questioned. These are the industries charged by Senator John D. Dineen, chairman of the Dailey commission with building "a Chinese wall around Chicago."

May Hold Up True Bills.
Assistant State's Attorney George E. Gorman, who returned yesterday from his vacation to take charge of the investigation, would not state whether he would ask for immediate indictments.

It is believed that true bills against the material men will be held up until Judge Kinkham Scanlan, who becomes chief justice of the Criminal court next Monday, has opportunity to pass upon the motion of attorneys for the indicted labor leaders who ask that previous indictments be quashed.

Chief Justice McDonald yesterday issued an order continuing the special jury for another month.

May Fix Wages Today.
Judge K. M. Landis, arbitrator, probably will announce his wage decision in the building trades controversy Saturday—possibly tomorrow—he said yesterday.

Contractors and employees alike have expressed confidence that the Landis verdict definitely will dispose of the building trades dispute that has been dragging since May 1, when contract was declared a lockout because unions refused to accept a reduced wage.

WILLIAM KASPAR, BANKER, CELEBRATES HIS 87TH BIRTHDAY

William Kaspar, founder and president of the Kaspar State bank and of the First National Bank of Chicago, will celebrate his eighty-seventh birthday today at his home, at 3234 Washington boulevard.

In spite of his age, he is still active in his business and is at his desk at his bank every day at 8:30 a. m.

Mr. Kaspar was born in Hollis, Bohemia, and came to this country when 17 years old with only $3 in his pocket. He served during the civil war and still bears scars of wounds received at the battle of Battle Rouge. He was a member of the public library board which built the present public library.

GOTHAM SETTLES LABOR TROUBLES OF BURLESQUE

Word was received from New York last night that the trouble between labor unions and the burlesque theaters, which led Saturday night to the explosion of bombs at the Star and Garter and the Columbia theaters here, had been settled. Details were withheld.

Issy Herk, speaking for the American Burlesque association in New York, said: "The difficulty has been adjusted. No New York revision of the scale of wages was involved—only customs and practices."

BONUS LAW NOT CONSTITUTIONAL, N. Y. COURT RULES

Violates Act Against "Gift of Credit."

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 31.—The Court of Appeals, by a vote of 5 to 2, today held the state soldier bonus act invalid on the ground that it violated article VII, section 1, of the state constitution, which prohibits lending the credit of the state for the benefit of any individual, association, or corporation.

Judge William S. Andrews wrote the prevailing opinion, which was concurred in by Chief Judge Frank H. Hiscock and Associate Judges John W. Hogan, Chester B. McLaughlin, and Frederick E. Crane. Dissenting opinions were filed by Judges Benjamin N. Cardoso, and Cuthbert W. Pound. The bonus act, according to the majority of the court, is clearly a gift of the credit of the state unless it is a payment of some obligation which the state owes. The ruling continues that the bonus is not the payment of an obligation to the former service men from the state.

The claim, the court holds, is a claim essentially against the federal government, a claim which the government recognizes and in payment of which it proposes to appropriate an amount estimated at between $3,000,000,000 and $5,000,000,000.

Controller James A. Wendell expressed regret that "a law approved by a majority of over 700,000 votes of the people and enacted for such a really meritorious purpose should have to be declared unconstitutional."

It was said at the capital tonight that plans were on foot to raise the money by direct taxation.

A Home Is No Longer Modern Without Frigidaire.

Keeps Food perfectly and makes Ice for your table — electrically

IT is no longer necessary to depend on an outside ice supply. Frigidaire enables you to make your own ice for table use.

It eliminates the uncertainty of the ice-man. It puts a stop to the muss and dirt that are so disagreeable to one who takes pride in an immaculate kitchen.

Frigidaire maintains an atmosphere in the food compartment that constantly hovers around 40 degrees, the ideal temperature for food preservation.

This wonderful electrical refrigerator is a product of The General Motors Corporation and is thoroughly dependable.

With all its advantages and its convenience, it will probably cost you less to operate than you now pay for ice.

We now have Frigidaire on display and will be glad to show you how it operates, or, if you prefer, we will mail you an interesting little booklet that tells the whole story.

Frigidaire may be purchased on easy payments

GENERAL MOTORS

Every day Nokol heaters are installed in homes all around you

Most people who heat their homes with coal, agree that the Nokol principle of automatic oil heating is the ideal method. Not all of them know, however, that

Nokol has proved itself in 1100 homes around Chicago

Nokol is as practical as electric lighting

Nokol requires no alteration in your present heating plant

Nokol heat is far less costly than heat from coal

1100 home owners in Chicago have found that Nokol has made the heating problem simply non-existent. We know how Nokol is performing in their homes. Hundreds of letters state the case in a way that would sound extravagant coming from us. These letters are on file for you to read.

Nokol may well be compared with electric lighting, because it is electrically operated, requires no attention, and gives a continuous even temperature through thermostatic control.

Now consider comparative prices of coal and oil. Coal for city delivery sold in August, 1920, for $14.70 a ton. Today it is selling for $15.15. And these prices are largely determined by two factors that seem fixed for a long time to come: wages and freight rates. On the other hand:

RETAIL OIL PRICES

August, 1920 · 18½¢ a gallon August, 1921 · 7 to 8½¢ a gallon

Yet even at the high price of oil last season, many Nokol users saved money on their heating. This year their saving will in many cases amount to 50%.

Many of the 5500 Chicago home owners who intend to install Nokol are placing their orders. We can fill no more than 900 of them by cold weather.

Therefore, if you would get the benefit of Nokol economy—luxury, you should place your order now. A small initial payment is all we require, the rest in easy monthly payments over a ten months' period.

At the State-Lake; News of the Stage

BY SHEPPARD BUTLER.

SEASONS may come and seasons may go, but variety at the State-Lake theater seems to go on regardless. Last evening, warmish and suggestive of boat rides rather than attendance at the play, found the usual two long lines of patrons in front—

one on the foyer, waiting for seats, and one on the sidewalk, waiting to get into the foyer. Inside the theater, the usual

audience was 3,011 to 1 in his favor, and I was the minority.

Howard and White—In a domestic playlet about, and with, twin boys, innocent enough except for the last line, which is blue.

Bert Kenney—A survival of the burnt cork era, addressing comic observations to an imaginary partner, I. R. Nobody. Kenney is an encoeur hound, if you even think of applauding him, he comes back.

Bubbles—An amusing dream fantasy performed in spirited fashion by Jack Norton, Miss Queenie Smith, Miss Marjorie Leach, and others. There are songs, dances, and much broad travesty. Miss Smith is a dainty blonde sprite who has a way with her, and Miss Leach has Charlotte Greenwood legs, a sense of humor, and, one suspects, an interesting future as a comedienne.

The Rosellas—Playing every musical instrument known to the mind of man.

And, of course, the usual others, whom I did not see.

Tonight at the Blackstone our long delayed first view of the much heralded "Lightning" America's most popular play, its three years career in New York is any criterion. Frank Bacon, the star, arrived early in the week and has been doted by his fellow players hereabouts, all little pals together in the embattled Acacia Equity. Bacon's fame was a long time coming (the actor is 57 years old), but he's a national figure now.

David Warfield will act again this year in "The Return of Peter Grimm," beginning his season in New York Sept. 20. Mr. Belasco, it is reported, has abandoned for the present all hope of finding a suitable new play for the actor.

Bert Williams' debut as a star in "The Pink Slip" has proved a flounder, and the piece has been withdrawn after a tryout in the towns near New York. The music did not come up to expectations and Williams, they say, was not given enough to do.

BEG YOUR PARDON

A recent item declared that Thomas Sizer was arrested on complaint of Miss Anna Pasquard of the Illinois Humane society and fined for beating his horse. The complainant was Mrs. Fred W. Pasquard, president of the Illinois Humane society.

In an editorial on the present Russian debate, printed yesterday, The Tribune referred for comparison or contrast to Zola's description of the ruin which fell upon France in '71, "after its war with Russia." The incident was to say Prussia, or more accurately, Germany, instead of Russia.

CHICAGO CHINESE WANT HARDING TO INVITE DR. SUN

A letter was sent to President Harding yesterday by the Chinese National Welfare society, with headquarters in Chicago, asking that an invitation be extended to Dr. Sun Yat-sen, "father of the Chinese republic," to represent the Chinese people at the Peking delegation to the conference in Washington.

The letter was signed by Tom Y. Chan, president, and F. Louis Hong, secretary, of the society, who declare that the representatives to be sent by the Republic of China will speak merely for that portion of China dominated by the military government controlled by Japan. The South China government, they point out, controls an area of 924,711 square miles, with a population of 221,600,000.

"The Peking delegation to the conference cannot and will not speak for South China," the letter reads.

SHE'S TREATED AS SERVANT, WIFE OF PHYSICIAN SAYS

Mrs. H. H. Schaffner
Brings Suit for Divorce.

When her husband, Dr. Herbert H. Schaffner, 2304 Farragut avenue, a prominent Rogers Park physician, made her a servant in the house and placed his sister, Miss Della Schaffner, in charge of the household affairs, so she alleges, Mrs. Anna Schaffner decided it was the last straw and yesterday filed suit for divorce through her attorney, John H. McAuliffe, 11 South La Salle street.

Mrs. Schaffner, who is the daughter of Henry Luaders, a wealthy oil dealer, avers she and Schaffner were married eight years and have two children, Muriel, 7 years old, and Earl, 5 years.

She asks the court to restrain the physician from disposing of real estate holdings and seeks custody of the children.

Flees to Father's Home.
Mrs. Schaffner avers she fled to the home of her father a week ago when her husband is alleged to have struck her when in a store which he owns at Ashland avenue and School street.

According to the bill, on last Saturday night Dr. Schaffner took the child, Earl, away in his machine, and later, after Mrs. Schaffner had complained to the police, he placed the boy on the sidewalk a block from the Luaders home.

Charges She's Made Servant.
For some months the physician's sister has been living with the family, and the wife charges in her bill that during that time she has been compelled to cook and serve meals to her husband and his sister. After they had finished she and her children were allowed to sit at the table, she alleges.

Both the physician's sister, and his mother, Mrs. Lillian Schaffner, are named in the injunction plea. The home in which they live was purchased in his mother's name and this, with other property, is held in the names of the sister and other members of the family, Mrs. Schaffner declares.

SHAW DECLINES INVITATION TO 'SPEAK IN CITY'

George Bernard Shaw yesterday paid Chicago a left-handed compliment. He declined to pay a visit to the city, but he based his refusal on grounds that were more complimentary to the city than those of a refusal to visit.

Shaw, who is now in London, declined to visit the United States. Briefly he believes that I or any other single man could deliver would make much difference," he says. "An address from Marshall Foch would be far more instructive, because three-quarters of the labor men who are now deserting the labor movement are now deserting the labor movement."

HOW TO START THE DAY WRONG

MEN ARE LIKE THAT

BY CLARA E. LAUGHLIN

STORM CLOUDS THREATEN.
"It was certainly an interesting evening," Jim declared to Sallie, when they were in their own quarters, making ready for bed.

The door between their bedrooms stood open, and he talked as he undressed.

"I suppose," Sallie said, tartly, "it was Miss What's-her-name who made a fool of him?"

"Miss who?" Jim queried. Actually he did not know whom Sallie meant.

"Oh, dear, no! She scarcely spoke at all. It was Janet who did the effective talking."

Ordinarily, Sallie would have pressed him for details of what Janet said, and how everybody took it, and so on. But tonight she seemed without curiosity on that score.

"Doesn't the secretary, who's so wonderful, talk?" she asked, skeptically.

"Oh, yes," Jim answered, heartily, "she talks very well, when she feels like it."

"When she's talking to you, for instance?"

"Yes," she was interesting when she talked to me."

Jim had a few twinges with the demon jealousy when he urged Sallie to go abroad, and when he resigned himself to certain features of her stage career. That he should incline to be jealous of his lovely and much admired young wife, but should conquer the inclination, seemed to him quite in the natural order of things. But that Sallie should ever have any jealous pangs on his account had not occurred to him.

So he was extremely stupid about catching the drift of Sallie's remarks.

Sallie was in a naughty, perverse mood; partly because she was sorry for herself in being cut off from so many of the normal pleasantnesses of life; and partly because she was not used to the idea of a woman who is not a mother, but a wife, with a wife who shared neither his work nor his recreation.

"It seems to have been an interesting evening," she commented, with a trace of acid in her tone that even Jim could not fail to smart under.

It struck him, then, all of a sudden, what the trouble was. Only, what struck him was but partially the right guess.

He went into Sallie's room and grabbed her in a boyish bear hug.

"The poor little honey!" he cried, squeezing her. "Had to go off and work, while we stayed home and had a party. It was a shame to go on telling her what a nice party it was and rubbing it in!"

"Don't be absurd!" she cried, pulling away from him. "I'm not six years old—nor sixteen!"

Jim was surprised by the rebuff. Usually, when Sallie had small hurts of her feelings, she loved being little-gilded by him.

REALTY BOARD OFFERS HELP TO CURB 'EXPERTS'

Votes to Make Lower Rates for City Appraisals.

The Chicago Real Estate board has decided to come to the aid of the city council finance committee in its struggle to devise a system of real estate and building appraisals to take the place of the city. On their return appraisal scheme through which five "experts" collected $2,742,666 from the city in a little over a year.

President L. M. Smith of the Real Estate board made the announcement yesterday.

"The Chicago Real Estate board will make lower rates for the city than its rates to individuals for appraisals," he stated. "We may have to amend our bylaws to this, but we have three powerful motives—our pride, our desire to serve the city, and our interest as agents for payers of $7 cent of the taxes, in keeping costs low."

Act on Schwartz's Request.
Chairman U. S. Schwartz of the aldermanic subcommittee which investigated the "experting" requested the aid of the board on July 19. At that time many of the board's members were out of the city. On their return President Smith called a special meeting of the directors. They approved Ald. Schwartz's request and Mr. Smith informed Ald. Schwartz the board is ready to begin its responsibility through a special committee at once.

"We have done similar work for the United States government, large financial institutions, estates, corporations, and individuals, and are qualified to accept this responsibility," President Smith's letter to the alderman says.

Smith Issues Statement.
Later Mr. Smith issued a statement describing the position which the board is willing to take. In part he said:

"Ald. Schwartz's invitation, I believe, should be resisted by the Chicago Real Estate board as an opportunity for it to take its rightful place as a civic organization, ready and glad to serve the public."

"With a dozen or more boulevards and other public works projected which necessitate the buying or condemnation of private properties, it is of tremendous importance to both property owners and every citizen who pays rent or works in Chicago, that the appraisals of property and the rates for appraisals be handled so as to insure public confidence. Then the big improvements can be pushed to completion, speeding plans for a city beautiful and offering work for tens of thousands of men during the coming winter."

DAIRY FARMERS START CONCERN TO RETAIL MILK

Wealthy dairy farmers, dissatisfied with the 2 cents a quart reduction in milk given Chicago consumers by the big milk distributors, are planning to invade the retail market with a farmers' independent milk company.

The new concern will sell milk at 10 cents a quart, 2 cents less than the new retail price which goes into effect today, according to Russell J. Poole, secretary of the city council committee on living costs, with whom the farmers interested in the new venture have been conferring.

Mr. Poole is now on his vacation at Waukesha, Wis., in the heart of the Wisconsin milk producing belt, and the conferences have been held there and in Milwaukee.

"Details are not ready for announcement," Mr. Poole said last night. "The farmers feel that the distributors have not passed their $1.50 reduction on to the consumers and that therefore the purpose of the wholesale price cut—to stimulate sales in Chicago—is being thwarted."

SEARCH FOR WIFE OF KANSAS CITY VISITOR FUTILE

After an all night search the police and her husband apparently were no nearer solving the disappearance of Mrs. Katherine Jewell of 1400 East 15th street, Kansas City, Mo., who left a rooming house at 4233 South Main avenue last Tuesday and disappeared.

With her husband, John W. Jewell, president of the Cream of Pure Wheat Baking company, $200,000 keeper of the city, arrived in Chicago last Friday. She went to the loop Tuesday to shop, having with her a small amount of money and a diamond ring valued at $250.

Her husband asserts that their married life was ideal. She has two children. She is 5 feet 9 inches, weighs about 200 pounds, and has dark brown hair and brown eyes.

Mule, Led Astray by Its Owner, Costs Him $200 Fine

It cost Ignatz Neitzel of 1006 Darrow avenue, Evanston, $200, because he had taught his mule bad habits. Neighbors testified before Police Magistrate Boyer that the mule wandered through streets and gardens, eating flowers and shrubbery and that it did so because Ignatz had encouraged it. The magistrate imposed the fine and ordered the mule confined to Ignatz's pasture.

Evanston Light Keeper Rescues 3 Boys from Lake

Patching an abandoned rowboat with a piece of cloth and using a board as a paddle, Charles Moore, keeper of the Gross Point lighthouse in Evanston, rescued three youths from drowning yesterday. The boys—Robert and Kenneth Ball of 1845 Sherman avenue, Evanston, and David Watson of Kansas City, Mo.—were thrown into the water when their sailboat capsized about a quarter of a mile from shore.
